2 AMENDED COMPLAINT

3 TO ALL PARTIES AND THEIR ATTORNEYS OF RECORD:

4 Plaintiff Todd R. G. Hill respectfully submits this opposition to Docket 270, the Motion to 5 Dismiss filed by Haight Brown & Bonesteel LLP on behalf of the remaining PCL Defendants. The 6 motion is meritless. It mischaracterizes alleged defects, the procedural record, misapplies the Federal 7 Rules, and improperly seeks dismissal with prejudice despite Plaintiff's material compliance with
8 both the Court's March 27, 2025 Order (Dkt. 248) and the liberal standards governing pro se
9 pleadings.

11 It should be denied.

12
13 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

14
15 I. DEFENDANTS' MOTION SHOULD BE STRICKEN FOR FAILURE TO 16 COMPLY WITH LOCAL RULE 7-3

17 Haight's Motion opens with a misleading narrative about Local Rule 7-3. Plaintiff clearly 18 attempted to engage in meaningful meet and confer proceedings.

19 Defendants' own declaration, submitted by Mr. Kirwin, undermines their current position by 20 acknowledging that in prior meet and confer efforts (August 29–September 3, 2024), counsel for 21 Haight provided a “detailed outline” in response to Plaintiff's request for the legal grounds, factual
22 basis, and relief sought. While there was disagreement at that time regarding whether the outline was 23 sufficiently detailed, the act of providing it demonstrates that both Mr. Kirwin and Ms. Jamshidi
24 previously understood Plaintiff's request as reasonable and consistent with the purpose of Local 25 Rule 7-3. In contrast, in the present instance, Defendants offered no such detail — not even the

1 general legal grounds until after Plaintiff requested additional information — and declined to engage
2 meaningfully beyond two vague emails. This change in approach confirms that Defendants chose
3 not to confer prior to the Court's ruling clarifying its expectations, not that Plaintiff refused to do
4 so. The record reflects a deviation from prior practice, not a procedural breakdown attributable to 5 Plaintiff.

8 A. PLAINTIFF'S REQUEST FOR CLARIFICATION WAS CONSISTENT WITH THE 9 PURPOSE OF THE RULE

10 Defendants' characterization of Plaintiff's Local Rule 7-3 conduct is not only inaccurate, it is 11 intentionally misleading. Plaintiff did not "decline" to meet and confer; rather, Plaintiff requested
12 written clarification of the legal grounds, factual basis, and relief sought in advance of a 13 telephonic discussion, in keeping with the stated purpose of Local Rule 7-3: to facilitate meaningful,
14 issue-narrowing dialogue and potentially avoid unnecessary motion practice. This request is neither
15 obstructionist nor novel. Notably, on September 6, 2024, Plaintiff filed a Proposed Third Amended
16 Complaint under a Fed. R. Civ. Pro. Rule 15 motion that addressed the issues Defendants previously
17 identified in a meet and confer, demonstrating both good faith and procedural responsiveness. If 18 Defendants were truly interested in narrowing the issues, they would have welcomed the opportunity
19 to preview and explain their positions in writing.

23 Courts have recognized that pre-call written summaries are often essential for pro se parties to 24 prepare. See Tatum v. Schwartz, No. 2:06-cv-01440-MCE-KJM, 2007 WL 419463, at *1 (E.D. Cal.
25 Feb. 5, 2007) ("Given Plaintiff's pro se status, the court finds it appropriate that the defendant should 26 have clarified its position in writing so that plaintiff could adequately prepare."); see also Jones v.
27 City of Los Angeles, 2013 WL 12323210, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 5, 2013) (noting that meaningful

COMPLAINT

1 meet and confer cannot occur without clear identification of legal grounds and relief sought and that
2 it is difficult to imagine how this can occur without the moving party first providing the opposing
3 party with a clear explanation of the grounds and relief sought.). Defendants refused.
4

6 B. DEFENDANTS' REFUSAL TO ENGAGE SUBSTANTIVELY WAS PROCEDURAL GAMESMANSHP

8 Notably, Haight's initial email failed to indicate the purpose of the meet and confer and it was 9 only after Plaintiff requested additional information that they supplied the meeting topic. Here,
10 Haight provided no additional information, refused to do so and made no attempt to re-engage after 11 the Court's ruling in Docket 267.

13 Defendants' Motion repeatedly and improperly reframes legal strategy as bad faith conduct.
14 Plaintiff's April 7, 2025 correspondence (Dkt. 264) did not "refuse" to meet and confer under Local 15 Rule 7-3. Plaintiff invoked the Rule's plain purpose in order to avoid unnecessary motion practice.
16 Such a request is not obstruction; it is precisely what Local Rule 7-3 was designed to facilitate.
17

18 Defendants label Plaintiff's request for legal clarity as "obstructionist," yet their refusal to 19 provide even a basic summary of the contemplated legal grounds suggests a deliberate effort to avoid 20 meaningful engagement under Local Rule 7-3. In this context, Defendants' accusation appears less a
21 good-faith assessment of Plaintiff's conduct than a projection of their own unwillingness to confer
22 substantively. (See Docket 199.)

23

24 As interpreted in Carmax Auto Superstores Cal. LLC v. Hernandez, 94 F. Supp. 3d 1078, 1084
25 (C.D. Cal. 2015), the rule is designed to encourage meaningful dialogue to narrow issues and avoid
26 unnecessary motion practice. Defendant's documented refusal to identify the legal grounds, factual

COMPLAINT

CASE 2:23-cv-01298-JLS-BFM

1 basis, or relief sought made it impossible for Plaintiff to respond meaningfully or consider potential
2 stipulations. This was not a procedural oversight; it was a calculated maneuver. The refusal confirms
3 that Defendant never intended to narrow the issues, seeking instead to preserve ambiguity in order to
4 manufacture an appearance of legal gravitas around what is, in substance, a procedurally defective
5 and facially meritless motion. Such conduct frustrates the orderly administration of justice and 6 demonstrates a pattern of strategic evasion inconsistent with Rule 11 and L.R. 7-3 obligations.
7

9
10 C. THE RECORD REFLECTS PLAINTIFF'S GOOD FAITH, PROCEDURAL CONSISTENCY AND SUPPORT IN PRECEDENT

11 Notably, as referenced above, on September 6, 2024, Plaintiff filed a Proposed Third Amended
12 Complaint under a Fed. R. Civ. Pro. Rule 15 motion that addressed the issues Defendants previously
13 identified in a meet and confer where information was provided, demonstrating both good faith and 14 procedural responsiveness. Plaintiff has consistently conferred in good faith where opposing counsel
15 has provided the required context. Defendants' claim that Plaintiff employs a "tactic" to avoid meet-
16 and-confer obligations is unsupported by any citation to record or pattern of conduct. It is a
17 conclusory narrative designed to excuse Defendants' own procedural noncompliance.
18
19

20 As courts have consistently held, including in Rodriguez v. Barrita, Inc., No. C 09-04057 RS, 21 2014 WL 1778894, at *6 (N.D. Cal. May 5, 2014), "meaningful meet and confer efforts require that 22 the moving party identify the specific issues, arguments, and relief to be sought, and that the 23 responding party have a fair opportunity to address them," a standard that fully supports Plaintiff's
24 request for written clarification prior to a telephonic conference.
25
26

27 Thus, Defendants' motion should be stricken in its entirety for failure to comply with Local
28 Rule 7-3, which requires meaningful and substantive engagement prior to filing. Defendants' refusal

COMPLAINT

1 to articulate constitutes a deliberate avoidance of the Rule's purpose. Their conduct was not a mere
2 procedural oversight, but a tactical maneuver designed to preserve ambiguity until filing, in violation
3 of both the letter and spirit of L.R. 7-3. Alternatively, should the Court reach the merits, Plaintiff
4 respectfully requests that the Court take judicial notice of this procedural misconduct, which
5 forms part of a broader pattern of evasive litigation behavior by Defendants and may warrant future
6 remedial or disciplinary action under Rule 11 or the Court's inherent powers.
7
8

9 II. PLAINTIFF'S FAC COMPLIES WITH RULE 8

10 Defendants' renewed reliance on Rule 8 is a procedurally improper and analytically
11 disingenuous attempt to reintroduce already litigated arguments.
12

13 On March 27, 2025, the Court entered an Order (Dkt. 248) explicitly granting Plaintiff leave
14 to amend his RICO and state-law causes of action, finding substantial compliance with Rule 8. The 15 Fourth Amended Complaint (FAC) does precisely that: it removes claims barred by prior rulings and 16 restructures the remaining counts with improved clarity, defined terms, and specific factual
17 allegations. Defendants' attempt to reassert blanket "shotgun pleading" accusations ignore this 18 Court's instruction and attempts to relitigate issues that were already adjudicated. Rule 8 is not a 19 license to "sandbag" amended complaints simply because they are detailed. Defendants' failure to 20 engage with the amended structure, and their reliance on boilerplate objections, suggests not 21 confusion, but strategic evasion.
22

24 A. THE FAC DOES NOT VIOLATE RULE 8 MERELY BECAUSE IT IS DETAILED

25 Rule 8 does not impose arbitrary page or paragraph limits. The Ninth Circuit has consistently 26 rejected dismissal under Rule 8 where the complaint, even if lengthy, provides coherent, structured,
27 and factually grounded allegations. See Hearns v. San Bernardino Police Dep't, 530 F.3d 1124,
28

COMPLAINT

1 1132 (9th Cir. 2008) (“A complaint that is verbose, conclusory and confusing may be dismissed
2 under Rule 8, but verbosity alone is not fatal”).
3

4 The FAC clearly demarcates each cause of action, identifies the actors involved, and uses
5 defined terms applied consistently throughout. Cross-references are appropriately used to avoid
6 unnecessary repetition and comply with Rule 10(c).
7

8 B. PARAGRAPH INCORPORATION IS PERMISSIBLE AND STRATEGIC, NOT 9 IMPROPER

10 Incorporation by reference is a standard and permitted practice. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 10(c)
11 (“A statement in a pleading may be adopted by reference elsewhere in the same pleading...”).
12

13 The FAC identifies which paragraphs relate to which RICO elements (e.g., predicate acts,
14 pattern, continuity), and defines them using specific paragraph citations (e.g., ¶¶ 33–84 for predicate
15 acts). That is a targeted, not indiscriminate incorporation.

16 Notably, Defendants fail to cite a single paragraph where the FAC confuses, obscures, or 17 merges claims in a manner that impairs their ability to respond. Instead, they rely on the assertion that 18 they are “left to guess” who is being sued — despite the fact that each cause of action expressly 19 names responsible parties and references specific factual allegations. Legal disagreement with 20 Plaintiff’s theory of liability is not a substitute for actual ambiguity.
21

22 Defendants cite Hearns, but the complaint in Hearns was over 81 pages with disconnected
23 legal theories and hundreds of unrelated facts. Here, the facts flow logically from PCL’s
24 administrative collapse and misrepresentations and are tied clearly to the four claims.
25

26 Defendants assert that the FAC is “verbose” and “confusing,” but fail to acknowledge the 27 significant revisions made in response to the Court’s March 27 ruling. The FAC is 63 pages, a
28

1 reduction from prior versions, and contains four clearly delineated causes of action. It utilizes defined
2 terms and expressly identifies factual predicates supporting each count.
3

4 A complaint need not be “short” in the abstract, only sufficiently concise and clear to place
5 Defendants on notice. This FAC does so.
6

7 C. DEFINED ROLES AND NAMED INDIVIDUALS PROVIDE ADEQUATE NOTICE
8 UNDER RULE 8

9 Defendants’ arguments regarding confusion are unavailing. Each cause of action in the FAC
10 includes a caption that identifies the specific defendants named in that claim, providing clear notice
11 of who is alleged to be liable. Where certain individuals are referenced both by name and by role
12 (e.g., as members of the “Board of Directors” or “Officers”), any overlap is, at worst, duplicative—
13 not confusing. Federal courts routinely permit such functional pleading where institutional roles are 14 central to the claims. See Newman v. San Joaquin Delta Cnty. Coll. Dist., No. 2:12-cv-01830, 2013
15 WL 1832776, at *3 (E.D. Cal. May 1, 2013). The FAC draws a direct line between the defined
16 governance structure and the individual actors alleged to have participated in the misconduct.
17 Defendants’ attempt to frame that clarity as ambiguity misrepresents both the pleading and the 18 governing standard under Rule 8.
21

22 1. "LUMPING" DEFENDANTS IS NOT FATAL WHERE ENTERPRISE OR 23 INSTITUTIONAL LIABILITY IS PLED

24 Where groups are used (e.g., “The Board of Directors”), the members are named in the 25 preamble and exhibits. Defendants’ claimed confusion is strategic, not legitimate.
26

27 If Defendants believe that any individual is misidentified, misattributed, or improperly
28 grouped, the appropriate remedy is a Rule 12(e) motion for a more definite statement, not dismissal.
Their failure to pursue that option signals that they are not confused, only resistant.

PLAINTIFF’S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT’S MOTION TO DISMISS THE FOURTH AMENDED
COMPLAINT

2. ANY ALLEGED AMBIGUITY IS CURABLE AND DOES NOT JUSTIFY DISMISSAL

If any confusion exists, the appropriate remedy is a motion for a more definite statement under Rule 12(e), not dismissal under Rule 8. See McHenry v. Renne, 84 F.3d 1172, 1179 (9th Cir. 1996).

The inclusion or omission of a name from the “defined terms” section does not alter the fact that the causes of action are targeted and make clear which roles or actors contributed to the alleged harm.

Any ambiguity regarding capacity (individual vs. institutional) is similarly not grounds for dismissal. Courts often resolve this through discovery or clarified pleadings. See Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dept., 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1990).

III. PLAINTIFF STATES VALID CLAIMS UNDER RULE 12(B)(6)

Under Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009), and Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56 (2007), a complaint must allege facts sufficient to render the claim “plausible on its face,” not detailed evidence; the FAC meets this standard by alleging specific conduct, roles, and comparators grounded in documents and first-hand knowledge.

A. PLAINTIFF STATES VALID CLAIMS UNDER RICO (18 U.S.C. § 1962(C))

The Ninth Circuit has repeatedly held that an association-in-fact enterprise may consist of a loosely affiliated group pursuing a common goal through coordinated conduct, particularly when the conduct involves administrative authority and financial misrepresentation over time. Plaintiff has identified overlapping actors (e.g., Pena, Gonzalez, Gillens, Spiro) participating in transcript manipulation, recruitment misrepresentation, and Board-level concealment. These acts extended over

1 years and continued through 2024, meeting both closed- and open-ended continuity standards. The
2 enterprise is distinct from the acts as alleged given the governing apparatus of PCL, operating as an
3 unlawful unit. To dismiss under RICO now would require this Court to prematurely resolve factual
4 disputes that must be developed through discovery.

5 Defendant's claim that Plaintiff fails to allege harm to business or property and lacks
6 specificity under Rule 9(b). Both assertions are wrong. The FAC alleges economic injury flowing 7 from fraud in the inducement of tuition payments, obstruction of transcript accuracy, and 8 manipulation of bar eligibility—all of which constitute concrete injuries to business or property under 9 Bridge v. Phoenix Bond & Indemnity Co., 553 U.S. 639 (2008).

10 The FAC further pleads the fraudulent scheme with sufficient particularity. For example, FAC ¶¶
11 84, 123, 138, 148, and 149 include and allege:

- 13 a. Specific communications (dates, senders, content) where Spiro and others provided false 14 representations or suppressed material facts.
- 15 b. Tuition paid under false pretenses.
- 16 c. Deprivation of educational value (a quantifiable contractual interest).
- 17 d. Admissions and internal inconsistencies in transcript-related correspondence;
- 18 e. A pattern of conduct that affected not just Plaintiff, but multiple students.
- 19 f. Spiro's personal role in transcript obstruction and financial misrepresentation (supported by 20 emails and State Bar correspondence).

21 Rule 9(b) requires particularity, not perfection. Where facts are within the exclusive knowledge of 22 defendants, allegations based on available documentation—particularly when reinforced by judicially
23 noticeable materials—satisfy the standard.

25
26
27
28

COMPLAINT

Defendant's ignore the doctrine that educational contracts and fraud in the inducement relating to tuition can qualify as property injury under RICO where there's a pattern (see Bridge v. Phoenix Bond & Indemnity Co., 553 U.S. 639 (2008)) and the copious incorporation of specific dates, emails, and institutional actors, particularly in allegations tied to transcript falsification and State Bar concealment, contained within the FAC and culminating with the timeline presented in its Exhibit 10.

1. PCL SERVES AS THE ENTERPRISE, NOT THE DEFENDANT, UNDER RICO § 1962(C)

To the extent Defendants suggest that PCL must be named individually in the caption, Plaintiff notes that the enterprise in this RICO claim is the governing structure of the Peoples College of Law — including its Board, Officers, and Agents — not the entity as such. PCL is not a named RICO defendant for purposes of this cause of action, but rather the vehicle through which the association-in-fact enterprise was operated.

The named individual defendants are liable “persons” under § 1962(c). Plaintiff has clearly alleged that PCL, a once-mission-driven institution, was captured and weaponized by its fiduciaries to carry out fraud (e.g., falsified transcripts, misrepresentation to regulators, concealment of probation). Thus, the enterprise is the separate and distinct corrupted institutional apparatus.

Under Cedric Kushner Promotions, Ltd. v. King, 533 U.S. 158 (2001), and Ninth Circuit cases like Living Designs, Inc. v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 431 F.3d 353 (9th Cir. 2005), the Court requires that the “person” be distinct from the “enterprise” in § 1962(c) cases.

To the extent Defendants argue that the absence of PCL as a named party in the caption or party-identification section renders the RICO claim defective, Plaintiff notes that any such ambiguity is not jurisdictional, not prejudicial, and certainly not fatal. Courts routinely permit clarification of party designations where the substance of the claim is clear. See, e.g., Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dept.,

COMPLAINT

1 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1990). Moreover, had Defendants meaningfully engaged in a Local Rule
2 7-3 meet and confer — or requested clarification through a Rule 12(e) motion — the issue could have
3 been resolved without burdening the Court. Plaintiff remains prepared to amend to the extent the 4 Court deems further clarification necessary, but respectfully submits that the FAC, as framed,
5 preserves the statutory distinction between person and enterprise and provides Defendants fair notice
6 of the claims against them.
7
8

9 In the alternative, if the Court determines that clarification is required as to whether PCL is the 10 “person” or the “enterprise,” such a determination involves a mixed question of law and fact and is 11 inappropriate for resolution at the pleading stage. Courts routinely defer such distinctions until 12 the factual record is developed. See Living Designs, Inc. v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 431 F.3d
13 353, 362 (9th Cir. 2005) (affirming denial of Rule 12(b)(6) motion where “whether DuPont was 14 distinct from the enterprise was a factual issue”). Discovery is necessary to determine whether the 15 alleged enterprise, composed of the governing apparatus and fiduciary actors, was operationally
16 distinct from PCL as a legal person. Plaintiff’s pleadings should be construed liberally to allow for 17 either theory of liability to proceed pending discovery.
18

21 B. RULE 9(B) COMPLIANCE

22 The FAC cites dozens of discrete acts of fraud, concealment, and misrepresentation — including 23 specific individuals and dates, satisfying Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b) under Swartz v. KPMG, 476 F.3d 756,
24 764 (9th Cir. 2007).
25
26

27 The claim that the FAC is “everyone did everything” is contradicted by the text. Paragraphs 33–
28 84 outline emails, board decisions, and administrative actions by identified actors. Spiro’s

1 admissions, Peña’s transcript interventions, and Gillens’ regulatory and other correspondence are all
2 cited.

4 The RICO enterprise is alleged with structure, continuity, and common purpose — and the 5 defendants are alleged to be part of that apparatus, not individually disconnected actors.
6

7 Plaintiff has properly alleged:
8

- 9 i. An association-in-fact enterprise, consisting of named individuals acting under color of 10 institutional governance;
- 11 ii. A pattern of racketeering activity, including repeated predicate acts (e.g., transcript 12 falsification, fraudulent course listings, misrepresentations about accreditation and solvency)
13 spanning multiple years;
- 14 iii. Concrete financial loss, including tuition payments made in reliance on false statements, 15 delayed graduation, and injury to future earning capacity;
- 16 iv. Continuity, as required by H.J. Inc., through conduct that constituted PCL’s ordinary mode of 17 operation.

18 Haight argues that Plaintiff fails to allege an injury “qualifying as injury to business or 19 property” under RICO, invoking Canyon County v. Syngenta Seeds, 519 F.3d 969 (9th Cir. 2008).
20 Spiro, in his separate opposition, has invoked Chaset v. Fleer/Skybox Int’l, 300 F.3d 1083 (9th Cir.
21 2002). Here, Plaintiff does not allege speculative future losses or intangible harms. The FAC pleads
22 concrete, pecuniary injuries that fall well within the scope of civil RICO standing under 18 U.S.C. §
23 1964(c).
24

25 Specifically, Plaintiff alleges:
26
27

---

28
COMPLAINT

- 1 a. That he paid tuition and associated fees to Peoples College of Law (PCL) under false
2 pretenses regarding academic credit, transcript accuracy, and bar eligibility (FAC ¶¶ 46–58,
3 123, 131–135);
4 b. That Spiro and others conspired to suppress corrections to his transcript in a discriminatory
5 manner, despite having corrected others' (¶¶ 148–149, 157–158);
6 c. That the falsified records and administrative obstruction derailed Plaintiff's licensing
7 pathway, costing him months or years of earning potential in his chosen profession (¶¶ 84, 8 138–140, 166).

9 These allegations establish a direct financial injury to Plaintiff's property interest in a 10 completed legal education, professional licensure track, and economic use of his academic 11 credentials. Such injuries are not "speculative" or "intangible." They are quantifiable harms tied to:
12

13 1. MONEY PAID UNDER FRAUDULENT INDUCEMENT.

- 14 a. Economic losses incurred from the obstruction of Plaintiff's advancement toward 15 licensure;
- 16 b. Suppressed credentialing, which undermines Plaintiff's ability to monetize his education
17 or compete professionally.

18 This distinguishes Plaintiff's case from Chaset, where the plaintiffs received what they paid
19 for (trading cards), or Gelt Funding, where the claimed injury was merely an increased risk of 20 financial loss. Here, Plaintiff suffered the loss of both educational investment and professional
21 access due to the Defendant's documented participation in a racketeering pattern that included fraud,
22 obstruction, and retaliation.

24 COMPLAINT

25 CASE 2:23-cv-01298-JLS-BFM

1 As the Supreme Court confirmed in Bridge v. Phoenix Bond & Indemnity Co., 553 U.S. 639,
2 647–48 (2008), RICO standing does not require the “strictest formulation of directness,” only that the
3 plaintiff’s injury was proximately caused by the predicate acts. That standard is met here. Plaintiff
4 has alleged a consistent pattern of fraudulent recordkeeping, selective enforcement, and procedural
5 retaliation that directly impaired his ability to convert his education into professional capital. These 6 allegations are not speculative because they are supported by emails, institutional records, regulatory 7 responses, and revoked accreditation.
8

10 Accordingly, Plaintiff’s RICO claim is properly grounded in qualifying injury to business or 11 property, and the motion should be denied on that basis.
12

14 2. NON-SPECULATIVE INJURY TO PROPERTY INTEREST IS EFFECTIVELY PLED

15 Furthermore, Haight ignores the doctrine that educational contracts and fraud in the 16 inducement relating to tuition can qualify as property injury under RICO where there’s a pattern (see 17 Bridge v. Phoenix Bond & Indemnity Co., 553 U.S. 639 (2008)) and the copious incorporation of 18 specific dates, emails, and institutional actors, particularly in allegations tied to transcript falsification
19 and concealment, contained within the FAC and culminating with the timeline presented in its 20
21 Exhibit 10.
22

23 Haight’s reliance on Canyon County and Oscar is misplaced. Those cases involved generalized
24 societal harm or speculative loss. Plaintiff’s allegations are particularized and well-supported by 25 internal emails and judicially noticed documents.
26

28 C. THE FAC ALLEGES A COMMON PURPOSE, SATISFYING BOYLE’S RICO
ENTERPRISE STANDARD

PLAINTIFF’S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT’S MOTION TO DISMISS THE FOURTH AMENDED
COMPLAINT

CASE 2:23-cv-01298-JLS-BFM

1 Contrary to Defendants' claim, the FAC explicitly alleges a common purpose among the Board,
2 Officers, and Agents of PCL: namely, to preserve the institutional facade of compliance through
3 coordinated misrepresentation, suppression of records, and fraudulent academic practices. This 4 satisfies the "common purpose" requirement for a RICO enterprise as set forth in Boyle v. United
5 States, 556 U.S. 938, 946 (2009), and has been further recognized in Ninth Circuit decisions such as
6 Odom v. Microsoft Corp., 486 F.3d 541, 552 (9th Cir. 2007).

7 Plaintiff clearly alleges that the defendants acted together to:

8 "Conceal the noncompliance of PCL with state regulatory requirements; to fraudulently represent that 9 students were receiving valid academic credits and progressing toward licensure eligibility; to 10 suppress internal and external reports of misconduct; and to perpetuate PCL's operation despite 11 regulatory findings to the contrary." (See FAC ¶¶ 33–84, 89–104).

12 Defendants' reliance on Odom v. Microsoft Corp. is misplaced; the FAC alleges precisely what 13 Odom and Boyle require — a group of associated individuals operating through an ongoing 14 institutional structure with a common purpose to perpetuate academic fraud and conceal regulatory 15 violations.

20 D. JURISDICTION & VENUE

21 Federal subject matter jurisdiction is determined at the time the complaint is filed — not 22 retroactively based on whether certain claims survive. See Grupo Dataflux v. Atlas Global Group, 23 L.P., 541 U.S. 567, 570 (2004) ("[J]urisdiction of the court depends upon the state of things at the 24 time of the action brought.").

25 Defendants appear to advance a strategic effort to eliminate Plaintiff's RICO claim for the sole
26 purpose of undermining subject matter jurisdiction. This attempt is both premature and legally

1 unsupported. Plaintiff has asserted a federal claim under 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c), properly invoking
2 jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1331. Even if the Court were to later dismiss the RICO claim on the
3 merits, that would not retroactively defeat jurisdiction. See Bell v. Hood, 327 U.S. 678, 682 (1946);
4 Grupo Dataflux v. Atlas Global Group, L.P., 541 U.S. 567, 570 (2004). Accordingly, Defendants'
5 suggestion that the FAC is jurisdictionally defective if the RICO claim is dismissed is both 6 procedurally inaccurate and affirmatively misleading.
7

8 While Plaintiff has invoked both federal question and, in the alternative, diversity jurisdiction, the 9 omission of individual defendants' residence information is a technical pleading defect, not a
10 jurisdictional bar. The FAC alleges that all Defendants are subject to this Court's jurisdiction based 11 on their conduct within California and the governance of a California-based institution. If necessary,
12 Plaintiff is prepared to amend the introductory section to identify the state of residence for each
13 defendant, based on publicly available records. However, this issue does not undermine the Court's
14 jurisdiction, which is independently supported by Plaintiff's federal RICO claim under 18 U.S.C. §
15 1962(c) and 28 U.S.C. § 1331. See Bell v. Hood, 327 U.S. 678, 682 (1946). Even if that claim is later
16 dismissed, the Court retains discretion to hear the state law claims under 28 U.S.C. § 1337(a).
17

18 To the extent Defendants argue that the FAC is deficient for not stating the residence of each
19 individual defendant, Plaintiff notes that this is a curable omission that does not affect the Court's 20 jurisdiction or the sufficiency of the claims. The FAC clearly alleges that all acts giving rise to the 21 claims occurred in California and that the relevant conduct was undertaken by Defendants in their
22 capacity as officers, directors, or agents of a California-based entity — Peoples College of Law —
23 with its principal location in Los Angeles County. Jurisdiction and venue are properly anchored in 24 these facts. If the Court believes that residence allegations are necessary for further clarity, Plaintiff is 25 prepared to amend the introductory section of the complaint to reflect each defendant's known city or 26
27

28 PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS THE FOURTH AMENDED
COMPLAINT

1 county of residence based on public bar records, admissions, or available contact information.
2 However, under prevailing standards, this technical omission does not warrant dismissal. See Levine
3 v. Entrust Grp., Inc., No. 12-cv-03959, 2013 WL 2606407, at *3 (N.D. Cal. June 11, 2013) (technical 4 deficiencies that do not affect notice or prejudice are not grounds for dismissal).
5

7 E. DEFINED ROLES AND NAMED INDIVIDUALS PROVIDE ADEQUATE NOTICE
UNDER RULE 8

8

9 The Fourth Amended Complaint defines “The Board of Directors” as PCL’s governing body and 10 identifies individual defendants who held Board roles during the relevant period. Under standard
11 pleading practice, when an institutional body is named and its members are individually identified
12 elsewhere in the complaint, courts reasonably infer that those individuals are the defendants
13 implicated in claims brought against the body. See Newman v. San Joaquin Delta Cnty. Coll. Dist., 14 No. 2:12-cv-01830, 2013 WL 1832776, at *3 (E.D. Cal. May 1, 2013) (“[P]laintiff’s identification of 15 individual actors by their role in the institution suffices to meet notice pleading standards.”).
16 Defendants’ claim that individual liability is unclear ignores the fact that each cause of action
17 references either the “Board,” “Officers,” or “Agents” — and that the FAC names individuals (e.g., 18 Peña, Gillens, Spiro, Viramontes) and describes their conduct in connection with those defined roles.
19 The Court need not infer liability from silence — the FAC connects roles to conduct and conduct to 20 claims. At most, any ambiguity in definition scope is a matter for Rule 12(e) clarification, not Rule 8 21 dismissal.

COMPLAINT

CASE 2:23-cv-01298-JLS-BFM

1 unequal treatment that is neither conclusory nor speculative. At this stage, it is not the Defendant's
2 narrative that controls, but the sufficiency of Plaintiff's allegations. Spiro's attempt to bypass that
3 standard should be rejected.

5

6 1. THE FAC ALLEGES INTENTIONAL DISCRIMINATION UNDER THE
UNRUH ACT

8 Defendants' assertion that Plaintiff has pled no facts to support intentional discrimination is 9 contradicted by the FAC. Paragraphs 53–54 and 158 allege that PCL selectively responded to 10 transcript grievances, granting a correction to a white student (Nancy Popp) while explicitly 11 withholding relief from other students, including Plaintiff. Defendant Spiro's written statement that 12 "the Board had not decided to correct the other student's transcripts" underscores this selective
13 treatment. These are non-conclusory allegations of disparate conduct tied to racial identity, and 14 courts have long held that such comparator-based allegations may support an inference of 15 discriminatory intent. See Koebke v. Bernardo Heights Country Club, 36 Cal. 4th 824, 854 (2005).

17 That Ms. Popp also submitted a grievance does not undermine the discrimination claim. What
18 matters under the Unruh Act is whether Plaintiff was denied full and equal access to institutional
19 remedies because of a protected trait — here, race. Plaintiff alleges that Ms. Popp received a prompt
20 correction, while he and other similarly situated students of color did not. Selective enforcement of 21 grievance responses is a classic example of disparate treatment, and courts have found that 22 differential access to redress mechanisms may itself constitute a denial of equal privileges under 23 the Act.

25

26 2. THE FAC ALLEGES INTENTIONAL DISCRIMINATION WITH SUFFICIENT SPECIFICITY UNDER THE UNRUH ACT

27

1 Defendants recognize that discriminatory intent may be inferred from disparate impact where
2 context supports such inference. See Koebke v. Bernardo Heights, 36 Cal.4th 824 (2005). Here,
3 Plaintiff has alleged a coherent, supported theory of unequal treatment that is neither conclusory nor 4 speculative. At this stage, it is not the Defendant's narrative that controls, but the sufficiency of 5 Plaintiff's allegations. Defendant's attempt to bypass that standard should be rejected.
6

7 Here, because Plaintiff alleges that he was treated differently than similarly situated students on 8 the basis of race his pleading meets the requirement.
9

10 Specifically, he identifies that Nancy Popp, a white student, received a transcript correction after 11 internal review, while Plaintiff — a Black student — was denied similar relief despite raising the 12 same issue (FAC ¶¶ 37, 45, 48, 54, 84, 151). This is more than a generalized grievance; it alleges 13 disparate treatment in response to similar procedural harm, which supports an inference of 14 discriminatory intent. Under Koebke v. Bernardo Heights Country Club, 36 Cal. 4th 824, 854 (2005), 15 such comparator-based pleading is a valid method of establishing intentionality.
16

17 Plaintiff has pled more than conclusory allegations of unequal treatment. The FAC specifically
18 references Defendant Spiro's admission to Nancy Popp that while her transcript would be corrected,
19 "the Board had not decided to correct the other student's transcripts." (FAC ¶ 54)<sup>1</sup>. This statement
20 reveals both awareness of the issue and a conscious institutional choice to apply relief selectively.
21 Plaintiff alleges that Ms. Popp, a white student, received individualized relief after internal review,
22 while Plaintiff — a Black student who raised identical concerns — was denied such relief and faced
23

24

---

25

26 <sup>1</sup> See FAC ¶ 54: "In email correspondence from Spiro to Popp dated February 22, 2022, Spiro explained that her
27 transcript would be corrected, and stated that the Board had not yet decided to correct the other students' transcripts.
28 This statement is notable both for its timing and substance: Popp's correction was granted after she raised her concerns, while similarly situated students of color, including Plaintiff, were left in uncertainty or denied similar relief."
Importantly, Plaintiff asserts that his transcripts were never fully corrected, even after clear evidence has been presented that the State Bar informed, and the Defendants were aware, of the issues with unit awards. (See FAC Exhibit 9 and Docket 199, Exhibit C.)

PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS THE FOURTH AMENDED
COMPLAINT

1 institutional resistance. Courts have long held that such disparate treatment among similarly situated
2 individuals may support an inference of intentional discrimination under the Unruh Act. See Koebke
3 v. Bernardo Heights Country Club, 36 Cal. 4th 824, 854 (2005). Plaintiff is not required to identify 4 every comparator's race at the pleading stage. Rather, the specific example pled, combined with the 5 institutional response, raises a fact question not suitable for resolution under Rule 12(b)(6).
6

7 Plaintiff alleges he was denied accommodations, access, and academic records under 8 circumstances where white comparators (e.g., Ms. Popp) received favorable and timely treatment.

9 Moreover, Defendants err in asserting that Plaintiff failed to identify individual involvement. At 10 a minimum, the allegations are sufficient to survive a motion to dismiss.
11

12 3. THE FAC PROPERLY ATTRIBUTES LIABILITY TO PCL UNDER 13 THE UNRUH ACT

14 Plaintiff's second cause of action is asserted against PCL, and the references to individual actors
15 (e.g., Spiro, Peña, Gonzalez) merely identify the institutional roles through which the discriminatory
16 conduct was implemented. The Unruh Act permits liability against an entity for the acts of its agents
17 and officers, so long as they were acting in their official capacity. See CIS Investments v. Adair, 200
18 Cal. App. 3d 307, 315 (1988). There is no confusion in the FAC: the claim targets PCL's
19 discriminatory conduct as carried out through its institutional governance structure.
20

21 G. NEGLIGENCE AND NEGLIGENT HIRING

22 Defendants simultaneously claim that the FAC is fatally ambiguous as to whether individual
23 actors are sued in their personal or official capacities, and yet assert immunity under California
24 Corporations Code § 5047.5(b), a statute that applies only to directors or officers acting within the 25 scope of their institutional authority and without compensation. This contradiction undermines 26

27 PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS THE FOURTH AMENDED
28 COMPLAINT

1 their argument. They cannot invoke institutional immunity while disclaiming institutional capacity.
2 Moreover, § 5047.5 immunity is an affirmative defense, inappropriate for resolution at the pleading
3 stage where material facts — such as the existence of compensation, gross negligence, or willful
4 misconduct — remain in dispute. Defendants' premature invocation of immunity only underscores 5 the need for discovery.
6

7 Finally, at least some Defendants received benefits or compensation disqualifying them from 8 § 5047.5 protection. This is a factual question not suitable for resolution at the pleadings stage.
9

11 IV. DEFENDANTS ASSERT NO MATERIAL DISPUTE OF FACT

12 Defendants' Motion does not contest the factual basis of the Fourth Amended Complaint.
13 Nowhere in Docket 270 do Defendants deny that:

14

15 a. Plaintiff was issued inconsistent, altered, or inaccurate transcripts;
16 b. Defendants acted with knowledge of PCL's probationary status and misrepresented its 17 authority to confer degrees;
18 c. Plaintiff and similarly situated students were subjected to a pattern of concealment, delay, and 19 retaliation after attempting to remedy academic harm;
20 d. Plaintiff incurred financial and professional losses in reliance on misrepresentations made by 21 Defendants in their institutional capacity.
22

23 If the Court finds even a single cause of action plausibly stated, dismissal is improper and the 24 case must proceed to discovery and adjudication on the merits.
25
26
27
28

V. DISMISSAL WITH PREJUDICE IS NOT WARRANTED

Haight's claim that Plaintiff has had "six opportunities" is misleading. Prior dismissals focused on form, not substance. The Court's March 27 Order explicitly allowed amendment as to the remaining RICO and state claims. Plaintiff responded with clarity, structure, and supporting documentation.

Dismissal with prejudice is appropriate only where no set of facts could support relief. That is plainly not the case here. Plaintiff has:

- a. Incorporated newly available PRA materials at each stage;
- b. Aligned counts to named defendants;
- c. Cured prior Rule 8 concerns;
- d. Narrowed the complaint to claims explicitly allowed by the Court.

To dismiss with prejudice now would prematurely foreclose claims before discovery has been allowed on any of the underlying conduct.

VI. THE STATUTORY IMMUNITY ARGUMENTS MISAPPLY SECTION 5047.5

Defendants invoke California Corporations Code § 5047.5(b) to argue that they are categorically immune from negligence claims or remedies because they were ostensibly volunteer board members. Unfortunately for the Defendants, this argument should be deemed unavailing because the statute contains express exceptions for fraud, willful misconduct, and gross negligence, all of which are pled with supporting detail in the FAC. The conduct alleged in the FAC, including transcript tampering, suppression of records, retaliation and discriminatory obstruction of academic certification, would fall well outside the scope of protected governance activity.

1 Defendants' invocation of California Corporations Code § 5047.5(b) is also internally
2 inconsistent. At various stages of this litigation, including in their prior filings and public statements,
3 Defendants have attempted to distance themselves from formal governance roles at Peoples College
4 of Law — denying that they held fiduciary or officer positions that would give rise to liability. Yet
5 now they invoke director-level immunity under a statute that presupposes precisely that kind of 6 organizational relationship. The Court should not allow Defendants to deny legal responsibility while 7 simultaneously asserting the protections reserved for those with such authority. Either they were 8 directors and owed duties — in which case the alleged inaction may constitute gross negligence or 9 willful misconduct — or they were not, and § 5047.5(b) does not apply.
10
11

13 The November 2021 email correspondence, a true and accurate copy attached as Exhibit A,
14 reflects internal acknowledgment by Defendant Spiro and members of the PCL Board that material
15 governance failures existed. Rather than intervene, the participants discussed reputational risk and de-
16 escalation — signaling deliberate inaction despite clear awareness of ongoing harm. Such conduct, if 17 proven, exceeds the protections afforded under California Corporations Code § 5047.5(b). Courts 18 have repeatedly held that director immunity does not shield knowing inaction in the face of legal 19 or fiduciary breaches. Accordingly, Defendants' assertion of blanket immunity is premature, fact-
20 bound, and misapplies the statute.
21
22

24 Importantly, Plaintiff served as a Board Member and corporate officer of Peoples College of 25 Law during the relevant period and participated in governance activities subject to regulatory 26 oversight. This perspective further undermines Defendant's assertions that they, or PCL, met 27 sufficient statutory prerequisites for immunity, particularly those involving liability insurance and 28

PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS THE FOURTH AMENDED
COMPLAINT

CASE 2:23-cv-01298-JLS-BFM

1 adherence to nonprofit governance protocols. Here, Plaintiff has claimed retaliation based on his
2 efforts to bring PCL into compliance.
3

4 These facts cast serious doubt on whether the Defendant's uniformly qualify for the statutory 5 immunity conferred by California Corporations Code § 5047.5(b), which applies only to 6 uncompensated volunteer directors acting within the scope of their board responsibilities and not
7 engaged in grossly negligent or fraudulent conduct. At a minimum, these issues are not resolvable
8 on a motion to dismiss and must be assessed based on evidence at a later stage.
9

11 It bears emphasizing that the record already reflects that Peoples College of Law's
12 accreditation was formally revoked by the State Bar of California. By itself, the regulatory outcome
13 underscores that Plaintiff's claims are grounded in demonstrable fact and cannot be dismissed as 14 implausible or conclusory.
15

17 At a minimum, these issues are not resolvable on a motion to dismiss and must be addressed 18 based on the evidentiary record given that characterizations of factual and legal status remain in 19 dispute.
20

21
22 VII. PLAINTIFF'S AMENDMENT HISTORY SUPPORTS, RATHER THAN
UNDERMINES, LEAVE TO PROCEED
23

24 Haight's argument for dismissal with prejudice under Rule 41(b) is both procedurally
25 excessive and factually distorted. It seeks to impose the harshest remedy available in federal civil 26 litigation — claim preclusion through involuntary dismissal — without satisfying the standards
27 that justify such a sanction.
28

Defendant's misrepresent Plaintiff's amendment record. The Fourth Amended Complaint (FAC) was not filed in defiance of the Court's prior orders and was submitted after the Court explicitly allowed Plaintiff to proceed. In accordance with that guidance, Plaintiff removed all previously dismissed claims and streamlined the complaint to address only those theories preserved by the Court in its February 27, 2025 order [see Dkt. 248].

A. RULE 41(B) REQUIRES FAILURE TO PROSECUTE OR WILLFUL DISREGARD OF RULES OR COURT ORDERS

Defendants' request for dismissal with prejudice under Rule 41(b) grossly overstates both the procedural posture and Plaintiff's conduct. The Ninth Circuit has made clear that dismissal with prejudice is a sanction of last resort, appropriate only in cases of willful disobedience of court orders or sustained bad faith. See Yourish v. California Amplifier, 191 F.3d 983, 990 (9th Cir. 1999). Plaintiff's amendments, including the current Fourth Amended Complaint, have narrowed the claims to four well-defined causes of action, incorporated newly disclosed records, and directly addressed prior deficiencies. This does not constitute delay, bad faith, or contumacious conduct.

In contrast to Nevijel v. North Coast Life Ins. Co., 651 F.2d 671 (9th Cir. 1981), where dismissal with prejudice was upheld due to repeated rule violations, conclusory pleadings, and improper additions of defendants without leave, Plaintiff here has abided by the procedural rules, narrowed the case, and submitted evidence-based pleadings. The Court has not imposed any intermediate sanctions or found willful noncompliance. Dismissal with prejudice would not only be unsupported by the record — it would be manifestly unjust. If any further clarification is required, Plaintiff is prepared to amend or supplement specific allegations to satisfy the Court’s standards.

B. DISMISSAL WITH PREJUDICE IS UNWARRANTED UNDER RULE 41(B) AND NINTH CIRCUIT PRECEDENT

Defendants' assertion that multiple amendments justify dismissal with prejudice misrepresents both the procedural history and the expectations of federal practice. Amendment is not only common — it is expressly anticipated in complex litigation involving institutional actors, evolving factual records, and multifaceted claims like those under RICO or civil rights statutes. See Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962) (courts should freely grant leave to amend when justice so requires, particularly where claims evolve through discovery or factual clarification).

Plaintiff has not engaged in frivolous or abusive amendment. Each complaint version shows increased legal clarity, factual specificity, and conformity with procedural standards. Courts consistently hold that amendment is proper where new facts emerge or institutional concealment has delayed discovery. See Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962); Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1130–31 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc).

Thus, the record supports moving forward on the merits, not dismissal based on an artificially framed amendment history.

XIII. CONCLUSION

Respectfully, the Court should not permit procedural maneuvering to eclipse the factual allegations presented in the operative complaint. Defendants do not meaningfully dispute the conduct at issue; instead, they seek to evade it through selective framing and strategic omission. Their motion does not clarify the claims — it seeks to obscure the record. Nor do they contest that Plaintiff has suffered harm; rather, they aim to prevent that harm from being adjudicated on the merits. Rule 12(b)(6) is designed to test the sufficiency of allegations, not to shield defendants from accountability.

1 through procedural deflection. Dismissal under these circumstances would not serve the interests of
2 justice or judicial efficiency. To the extent Defendants rely on extrinsic evidence or seek resolution of 3 factual disputes, their arguments exceed the scope of Rule 12(b)(6) and should be evaluated, if at all,
4 under Rule 56, only after notice and discovery, as contemplated by Rule 12(d) and subject to the 5 evidentiary standards set forth in Rule 56(e).

COMPLAINT

CASE 2:23-cv-01298-JLS-BFM

1 DECLARATION OF TODD HILL IN SUPPORT OF OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANTS'
2 MOTION TO DISMISS

3 I, Todd Hill, declare as follows:

5 1. I am the Plaintiff in the above-captioned matter. I submit this declaration in support of my 6 opposition to Defendants' Motion to Dismiss the Fourth Amended Complaint ("FAC"). I
7 have personal knowledge of the matters set forth herein and, if called to testify, could and 8 would do so competently under oath.

10 2. I am the author of the Fourth Amended Complaint filed on April 1, 2025. That filing was 11 made in good faith, in direct response to evolving factual records, and to address issues
12 previously raised in both prior motions and by the Court. The FAC contains only four causes
13 of action, is supported by documentary evidence, and reflects a narrowing of claims — not 14 expansion.

17 3. Defendants' characterization of the Local Rule 7-3 process is inaccurate. On April 7, 2025, I
18 received a brief email from counsel at Haight Brown & Bonesteel LLP requesting a 19 telephonic meet and confer. The email did not specify which legal grounds or claims
20 Defendants intended to challenge, nor did it provide the relief sought or any opportunity to 21 evaluate proposed stipulations. In response, I requested clarification — consistent with Local 22 Rule 7-3's purpose of narrowing issues and potentially avoiding motion practice. I requested
23 that Defendants identify the specific legal grounds, factual basis, and relief they intended to 24 seek.

27 4. Defendants refused to provide any additional information. This was materially different from 28 prior interactions. In September 2024, for example, Defendants responded to a similar request

COMPLAINT

CASE 2:23-cv-01298-JLS-BFM

1 with at least a partial outline. While we disagreed about its sufficiency, it demonstrated their
2 acknowledgment that some level of pre-call specificity was appropriate. The April 2025
3 request was met with categorical refusal, no outline, and no follow-up — despite my clear
4 willingness to engage substantively if the basic purpose of L.R. 7-3 was honored.

5 5. I deny that I “refused” to meet and confer. I asked for clarity in writing so that the call would
6 be productive, especially given the volume of issues and the pattern of evasive
7 communication in prior interactions. The email chain included in Docket 264 reflects that my 8 position was procedural and principled, not obstructive.

9 6. With respect to the Third and Fourth Causes of Action, I further state that I do not have access 10 to reliable records indicating whether all of the named individual defendants served without 11 compensation as directors or officers of Peoples College of Law (“PCL”). I have not seen any 12 sworn declarations or admissible documentation to support such a claim. Therefore, to the 13 extent Defendants assert immunity under California Corporations Code § 5047.5(b), I
14 respectfully contend that the issue cannot be resolved without discovery.

15 7. I also affirm that the February 22, 2022, email from Defendant Spiro to student Nancy Popp
16 — referenced in ¶ 54 of the FAC — is authentic. In that message, Spiro stated that the Board
17 had “not yet decided to correct the other students’ transcripts,” while affirming that Ms.
18 Popp’s transcript would be corrected. This communication is central to the Unruh Civil Rights
19 Act claim and supports the allegation of selective institutional relief.

20 8. The FAC further alleges that PCL, through its governance structure, was used by individual
21 actors to facilitate and conceal fraudulent conduct. Whether PCL served as the RICO
22 “enterprise” or the “person” under 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c) is, at a minimum, a factual question. If

Ira,

I have earlier informed you of my intentions, and to date I have met my commitments in this regard faithfully.

As I have earlier indicated, the number of documents and complexity of the issues "in controversy" are such that I must endeavor to meet the earlier of the two (2) deadlines given to avoid the potential for additional controversy related to what ostensibly is an example of further error made by the Committee during this process. Consequently, although ideally I would present all documents to all parties at the same time, given the deadline I believe you communicated with me related to the insurance, this is likely not a request that I can fulfill.

REQUEST FOR INSPECTION OF DOCUMENTS (3RD REQUEST FOR ITEM 2: VIDEO TAKEN AT THE BOARD MEETING).

1. D&O policies for 2020 and 2021.

I reiterate that I do not believe that the D&O insurance is something presumed to fall under the exclusive control of the executive committee.

I invoke my statutory rights of inspection, pursuant to my duty of responsible inquiry related to the above.

2. Access to the recording that I believe, but acknowledge remains an outstanding question for resolution, shows that at least one participant's consent was not sought.

I will endeavor, as I have done throughout this process, to provide as are reasonably appropriate, necessary, or foreseeable

I believe Hector recommended obtaining counsel; I have also suggested this approach as well in a variety of contexts. We are bound in our duty to mitigate damage to the mission, my student friends and comrades that I have attempted to serve, and an historic institution supported by a wonderful volunteer faculty. Most importantly as a matter of responsibility; I do not believe that the 1L's as a cohort are far enough along in their studies to fully grasp the issues and I am concerned that they may be able to claim that they were not fully informed of the circumstances in a few short months if the school's prior attrition rates remain reliable predictors of student retention and 2L entrance in 2022. As I have attempted over the last few months to become better informed of the legal and regulatory landscape, I believe there were quite a few things I should have been told in advance, given the specific nature of our institution.

I cannot say that I am fully aware. We should avail ourselves of outside counsel; more importantly, I believe it to be prudent.

I look forward to your response.

Todd

Todd, as you have know since mid-August, I am no longer the dean and I have no official position with PCL. I am helping with the application for renewal of the D&O insurance, but that does not give me any position with PCL or any right to send you its documents. I'm sure you realize I don't have the recording you asking about - I wasn't even at the meeting.

Also, let me add that on the phone about an hour ago you refused to send me or anyone else today a copy of whatever it is that you told me told me you are going to send to the State Bar today. That could be harmful to PCL's applying for renewal of the D&O insurance. You are an insured person under the policy, so refusing to send me the document is against your own interests as well as the interests of PCL and all its board members, officers and volunteers, and its employee.

Ira,

I understand that you no longer have a relationship with PCL.

As you are aware, I was completely surprised to discover that you had been solicited for that activity.

No one has informed me, other than yourself, that you are authorized to work on the D&O insurance..

I do not recall it as a topic of Board discussion nor can I recall seeing any minutes discussing the topic. The same can be said for voting on the topic.

I included what I currently believe is operating as the Executive Committee because it is not my intent to delay.

Unfortunately, as you mentioned earlier, you have no official relationship to the organization, and I have yet to be told (though I do not doubt what you say you understand the formalities requirements.

That said, I am not sure what the plan is but at the moment you have no authority to request any documents from me, nor I you per se; That is why I included the Executive Committee so that they might diligently resolve our impasse. That said, there is a question from my perspective as to whether or not that document should even be in your hands?

I stand ready, willing, and able to perform my duties in accord with my statutory duties and obligations as well as the AOI and Bylaws.

For the sake of comity, I must clarify generally even the Director's invocation of inspection right sets five (5) days as a reasonable period for document delivery.

I have made a suggestion that we retain counsel. As I have said earlier, my interest is in restoring the school to compliance, although I do not think that I was adequately informed, as I think the facts will simply bear out.

On a personal note Ira, please understand that I truly feel that the burdens and pressures being placed upon me, given the nature of the circumstances are egregiously unfair.

I have heard from parties that during your discussions with them on a variety of matters, the subject of Hector's version of my comportment arose; is that true?

Have you seen the video? Even if you have, I request that you refrain from such activity; my complaints are not emotional grievances but conduct that I reasonably believe violates certain requirements of professional responsibility. I do not claim any expertise, nor any part, in the investigation or adjudication of the issues identified. Any implication that I may be sued due to these statutorily and COC protected activities conducted in faithful conformance to my duties runs the risk of being perceived as improper.

I am just the messenger in this process ..... all of the actual decisions seem out of my hands ..... hence the invocation of the Duty to Report, which is a different standard for me as a student board member than for an attorney.

This is an incredible mess, but it is not a mess of MY creation.

Todd

I would like to clarify, I am not a member of the executive committee, or any other committee. If the election results are being questioned, or contended, I am not clear that I am even a member of the board until the election committee submits its formal determination and report in writing.

I do not have possession or control of any recording of any PCL meeting. I do not have possession or control of any other documents in controversy.
